Saloons Open on Sunday?

The Question Perplexes New Yorkers.

Low Favors Local Option to Settle the Trouble.

New York, Nov. 12.—(Spl.)—The question of keeping saloons open Sunday after church hours is agitating the public, and a fight is looked for. From the present outlook it would appear as if the fight between the city and the state would be renewed. Senator Platt has given it out indirectly that he would oppose the efforts of Justice Jerome to have the State Legislature repeal the Ralnes law and pass a law permitting Sunday opening.

The public, press and ministers are almost a unit in supporting Jerome. Mayor-elect Low takes the same position as he did in 1896, when the Ralnes law was passed. Low went to Albany at that time and declared that local option was the only solution to the liquor problem.

All Creditors Have Received Their Money With Interest.

New York, Nov. 12.—(Spl.)—After a suspension of over four months the Seventh National bank was opened for business again this morning. Edwin Gould is president of the bank under the reorganization. All creditors of the old bank have received their money with interest. When the doors of the bank were closed some months ago there was great excitement in New York and a panic among the depositors.

SPORTSMEN

Had Good Luck Hereabouts Monday.

Many Went Out For Ducks Tuesday.

Akron sportsmen had generally good luck in their quest for game Monday. Tuesday morning a number went out for ducks, it being lawful to hunt ducks on the state reservoirs and waters connected with them, on Monday, at any time.

Among the fortunate sportsmen were Harry C. Miller and Thomas W. Miller who went to Ashland county. Col. Stewart Miller received two dozen quail and a dozen rabbits from them Tuesday.

HIS TITLE.

The "Marrying 'Squire'" Cinches It With Another Contract.

Names or nationality cut no figure with "Squire" J. R. Campbell when it comes to tying marriage knots. In fact the title of "Marrying 'Squire'" will be maintained at any cost or under any circumstances. Tuesday morning the "Squire" married Costanzo Mucini and Teraso Sammarone, both of Akron, and claims to have handled the names in a manner which made their union into one a permanent affair.

PREACHERS

But Others, Too, Are Asked to Attend Services.

There was not a large attendance at the week of prayer services in the First Church of Christ Tuesday, and pastors of the city wish the announcement emphasized that these services are not for the ministers alone. Owing to the absence of Rev. J. G. Slayter, who was to have had charge of the services Wednesday morning, Rev. W. F. Wyckoff will have charge. The services begin at 10:30 a. m.

THE UNDERTAKER AND THE MUSICIAN WHO WERE CHOSEN TO HIGH OFFICES.

MARK M. FAGAN

New York, Nov. 12.—From undertaker's assistant to Mayor of a great city at 32 years of age is the accomplishment of Mark M. Fagan, who, on Jan. 1, 1902, will assume the duties of chief executive of Jersey City.

Mr. Fagan was elected by the biggest majority returned in Jersey City in years. The personality of the Mayor-elect and his tireless energy won him the fight.

As a young man he called upon young men to aid him. The only public office he ever held before was that of Freeholder of Hudson county. He ran against Robert Hudspeth when the latter was elected to the State Senate. He beat him in the city, but lost in the county.

His campaign for Mayor commenced a year before the election. His campaign was a tireless one. Early in the morning he would leave his modest home on Mercer st.—the home over which his charming sister, Miss Manie Fagan, presides—and pitch into his campaign work.

Into the houses of the rich and poor alike, whether the heads were of his political faith or not, Mark M. Fagan went. He would talk to the men if they were at home, and if they were not, his discussion on affairs political would be with the women. His sister's girl friends entered with great spirit into the work of his campaign and helped wherever they could.

"Very few men can refuse a woman, although a woman can refuse many men," says Mayor-elect Fagan, "and my fair advocates must have had good persuasive powers, for I know that many a vote was gained through their influence."

During his canvass the Mayor-elect visited factories, railroad yards and spoke to the people on the street.

One of his party managers estimated yesterday that during his canvass Mr. Fagan visited twenty-six thousand houses.

TANNER'S STORE & NEWS

Now that it is getting cooler, oysters will be more in demand. We have made arrangements to relieve them every day, one and two times. We sell the best oysters possible to get; sell them only in tins, but sell them to you this way just as cheap as when they are sold in bulk. We find that the trade likes their oysters just as they come out of the shell. Getting them in tin insures you that no ice water is in with them. Then again, how much nicer to think they come in sealed tins and not in the wooden pails, used over and over again—sometimes in the South, sometimes in the West, in every kind of a place. We don't say that all bulk oysters are poor, and come in mixed up with a good bit of ice water, but we know that any oysters that have to come

EUGENE E. SCHMITZ

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—Eugene E. Schmitz, leader of the Orchestra at the Columbia theater, who has been elected Mayor after one of the most sensational three-cornered fights that has ever taken place in this city.

Schmitz was nominated on the Union Labor ticket, and for three weeks waged an aggressive campaign. The nomination of Schmitz was the result of a machinists, teamsters and longshoremen's strike. A full ticket was put in the field against the Democrats and Republicans. Schmitz won by 10,000 plurality over Wells, Republican, and carried three supervisors into office with him.

Mr. Schmitz is six feet one inch in his stocking feet and weighs 205 pounds. He stands as straight as an Indian, and walks with free and muscular stride.

Three years ago the Mayor-elect had a steamer venture on the upper Yukon. He was in Alaska for eight months. In those days that land was no place for weaklings. It hit some strong men very hard. Schmitz came out of it in better condition than he went in.

Another trait of the man is his ready laugh. He has a keen sense of humor. His father was a pioneer of 1849—the man who built the first brick house in San Francisco. All the pride of a native son tends to make the future mayor mindful of what is best for the city's government and prosperity.

Mr. Schmitz obtained his education in the public schools here. His musical education was obtained from his father, Joseph L. Schmitz, well remembered as an orchestra leader, and his uncle, Christopher Schmitz.

He began his work as a drummer boy in the old Standard theater, on Rush st. From there he worked his way up to leadership of the California Theater orchestra, which position he accepted in 1896. He has been a leader of orchestras ever since, his outside ventures consisting of the Alaskan steamer enterprise and his connection with the Economist Gas Engine Company.

tary C. R. Olin, who was a student in Dr. Claypole's time spoke of the deceased for the alumni. Prof. S. P. Orth, who holds the chair of science, which Dr. Claypole held, spoke of the latter's work and the marks of his influence which he has observed. All the addresses were in earnest praise of the departed one. A solo was sung by Mr. Weary, one of the students, and a hymn closed the services.

DR. CLAYPOLE.

His Memory Honored at the College.

A memorial meeting for the late Dr. E. W. Claypole, for 13 years an instructor in Buchtel College, took the place of the morning chapel exercises at the college Tuesday. A considerable number of Dr. Claypole's Akron friends and former students of the college were present. President A. B. Church made the introductory remarks, and Prof. C. M. Knight then spoke feelingly of Dr. Claypole as a fellow member of the faculty.
